Making Your Stores More Profitable

Cash management is one of the quickest and easiest ways to provide your business with a quick win when it comes to increasing profits margins, while also improving above store visibility of your cash flow, enterprise wide.

What would your staff do with a few extra hours a day?

Your typical retail employee spends over 2 hours a day counting cash, reconciling their cash drawers, closing out start floats and organising deposits and change deliveries. This equates to over 180,000 hours per year, or around £2 million spent by businesses on cash management alone.

“With 5-8 cash registers in each store we were looking for a device that was both quick and accurate. The Cashmaster One has significantly reduced the time we spend counting cash, preparing floats and organising cash pick-ups. Our sales associates’ time is freed up to concentrate on more important matters, namely our customers.”

What is Cashmaster Count-by-weight?

Cashmaster count-by-weight is one of the most efficient, reliable and accurate ways to count coins, notes, and other items such as coupons. Even small variations caused by dirt, oil or torn notes are taken into account with our self-learning software, designed and engineered in-house by Cashmaster.

Connectivity and Integration

In a connected world, a deeper level of integration and seamless data transfer is a growing requirement. Businesses are looking to remove multiple levels of manual processing of data across their cash handling processes in order to: reduce opportunities for errors; speed up the processing of data; give more real-time information that management can use to make better, faster decisions; and provide greater accuracy and accountability to their enterprises.

Integration can be seen also as a key component in a loss prevention strategy.

Automation is key when streamlining any process throughout your business. Our Cashmaster One range has a variety of different options to integrate our devices and provide further visibility, above store and enterprise wide.

Cashmaster Integration Solutions

Cashmaster offers a wide range of in-house data management and POS integration options, as well as ready-to-go connectivity solutions to operate seamlessly with 3rd party cash management platforms.

Cashmaster QR-Link

The QR-Link avoids the need for USB or ethernet cable connectivity between the POS and the Cashmaster Cash counter – effectively providing wireless transfer of the cash count as well as other information for process traceability, such as cashier ID and till ID.

- When installed, count data is presented as a QR code on the display of the Cashmaster One device, this can be scanned by a standard POS scanner or the camera of a mobile/tablet device.
- The count data can then be transferred to the POS or other system.

Cashmaster Connect

Tracks your a cash count quickly and easily. Transfers your cash-count data, stores and recalls count data, details the count types, exports cash-count information to Excel.
